Introduction

Who wouldn’t be tempted by this inspiring journey and one of the world’s classic treks - traversing from end to end the entire Pyrenean chain of mountains on foot? The mythical GR10 starts at the Atlantic Ocean and crosses over more than 850km of dazzling mountains to arrive at the Mediterranean coast. Walking through scenic grandeur that varies enormously from flower-filled meadows and sparkling lakes to cirques and high summits, you will enjoy ever varied landscapes and contrasting geography, vegetation and architectural styles. Each valley you pass through has its own distinct flavour and you will get a taste of many different cultures from the Basque country through to Catalonia. The Pyrenees is a unique blend of people and walking the GR10 is a superb way to explore local life and absorb the differences. Wild massifs, snow topped peaks, lush green valleys and a rich Pyrenean flora and fauna are some of the pleasures you will remember for a lifetime. As the trail draws to an end you descend through gentle rolling vineyards and sun baked coastal terraces to the Mediterranean. Here you can slip into another rhythm, sample some late night dining and local seafood specialities.

Quieter than the Alps yet offering as many splendid mountain vistas and more pockets of remote wilderness, the Pyrenees are worth returning to time and time again with new aspects to discover, a huge variety of terrain and numerous National Parks on both the French and Spanish sides. They stretch for 400 kilometres between the Atlantic and Mediterranean, creating a barrier between France and the Iberian Peninsula. For most of this distance the frontier range consists of major peaks and forms the watershed between these two countries. The mountains are full of high peaks and contrasts with lush green valleys falling away steeply on the French side and drier, more confused ranges, to the southern Spanish side. A truly magnificent mountain range with its own innate identity.

Our suggested self-guided walk focuses on section 4 of the GR10 – Cauterets to Luchon. This is a particularly hilly section. The walks are on good footpaths and trails but the terrain is varied and sometimes rocky.

The first part of the itinerary takes place in Pays Toy. The word ‘Toy’, formerly Thôys, means: child or small and refers to the youthfulness of the villages. From Cauterets to Barèges, via the high valley of Luz-Saint-Sauver and the col de Ricou, where there is a splendid panoramic view, you will visit villages renowned for the benefits of their thermal waters.

In the second part, from the Gaubie Bridge to Bagnères-de-Luchon, the itinerary makes its way through a succession of lakes, mountain passes, at more than 2000m altitude, and mountain villages. You will cross the Nature Reserve in Néouvielle and its remarkable glacial lakes, before reaching the villages of Saint-Lary-Soulan and Germ, the famous Espingo lake refuge and finally Bagnères-de-Luchon, the belle of the Pyrenees.

Other sections of the GR10 are available for self-guided walks please speak to your consultant for more details.

Important Note

Due to the specialist nature of our holidays, day to day itineraries should be taken as a guide only, and as statements of intent and not contractual obligations. We regularly update our trip dossiers to take into account changes to trekking routes, accommodation, local transport etc. Such changes are a factor of this type of holiday and when made are out of necessity. Other factors such as adverse weather, unforeseen circumstances and other matters entirely out of our control etc can also lead to enforced changes during the course of the holiday. It is not possible to guarantee that any of our holidays will operate exactly as per the anticipated itinerary. The most current trip dossier will be made available on our website. We will also send you the most up to date trip dossier with your “Final Joining Instructions” approx. 2 weeks before departure and you should carefully check this for any changes that may affect your plans. Before booking you should read our “Types of Trip” and “Essential and Useful information” sections on www.walksworldwide.com including our ‘Important Warning’.

Your holiday

Life on trek
You will need to carry a small day sack (30 – 35litres), with everything needed for a day’s hike in the mountains e.g. water bottle, camera, picnic, fleece or warm layers, first aid kit, sunscreen, hat, sunglasses and waterproofs. Your main luggage will be transported by vehicle between the different hotels. On certain days you will need to carry your personal gear for the night, please refer to the different sections for more details ie for the refuges. Access to your main luggage on these nights is not possible.

Walking conditions
The walks are mostly along footpaths and trails that are well marked. You need to be used to walking in fairly mountainous terrain and take regular exercise to enjoy this holiday. There is between five hours and seven hours walking each day and the ascents and descents are constant. There will be between 830 and 1160m average altitude gain per day. However what you do gain are incredible views and access to some superb wild mountain scenery that really will give you a sense of the true Pyrenean environment. You will need to carry your overnight gear for one night on this section. We have specified the average walking time and duration each day. However, the effective walking time is an indication of how long it will take, though walking speed varies enormously. The estimations do not take into account time for route finding and stops along the way. The average altitude gain is given at the start of each day and some sections will be hillier than others.

Self-Guided Holidays
As the name suggests, self-guided holidays are for those that prefer to be independent. Within reason you are able to dictate your own schedule, as well as walk at your own pace with the aid of route notes and maps. All your accommodation has been reserved in advance and unless otherwise stated within this trip dossier, your main baggage is transferred between each accommodation along the way, so there’s no need to worry about carrying heavy loads and having to back pack. This means you only need to walk each day and carry your usual lightweight daypack. However, it is important that you are entirely comfortable with being independent whilst on a walking holiday.

We will provide you with the route notes and maps and plan all the necessary logistics; leaving you free to enjoy the trial at your own pace. All you need to do is to choose the best dates and enjoy the journey. Departures for the GR10 depart on Sundays.

For detailed information as to what a self-guided holiday entails please read the self-guided walking holidays section at Types of Trip section on www.walksworldwide.com before booking your self-guided walking holiday.

Route Notes - Help keep them up to date
Things can and do change along the routes that self-guided walking holidays follow. A sign may have been changed, or even removed, a path may have been obstructed, even re-routed, a landmark the route notes refer to may simply no longer exist. It is clearly impossible to keep track of all the changes that may occur outside the local tour operators control and knowledge. It may be the route notes translation can be improved (they are translated into several languages by the local operator after all) too. Clearly a case of “last person to walk the route” has the most up to date information. In the spirit of camaraderie amongst walkers and in an effort to constantly keep route notes updated and improved upon, the local operator (contact details in your final joining instructions) will always welcome notification of any changes along the way/recommendations for improvement if you would care to forward any useful and specific information to them. Alternatively, send to Walks Worldwide and we will forward accordingly.

Lunches are not included and will be carried as picnics purchased in the villages on the way or ordered from the refuges. We recommend you take a Tupperware box and cutlery for your picnic. Details on this will be given together with all the trip information when you arrive at your start accommodation along with the route notes and topographical information

Climate

It is of course impossible to predict the precise weather conditions you will encounter during the course of your holiday.

You should always be prepared for inclement weather conditions in the Pyrenees. Summer storms are entirely possible, and even in August snow fall is not uncommon at higher elevations. For climate statistics visit www.worldweather.org.

In general there tends to be a 10-day weather cycle. It begins with clear skies in morning and clouds building up towards evening. Gradually through the cycle clouds build until day 10 when a storm occurs, clearing the air and the cycle repeats itself. However, this is only general. The weather tends to be cloudier and cooler on the French side and warmer and clearer on the Spanish. Day temperatures average around the mid 20 – 28 °C (70 – 80 °F) depending upon altitude. During the night it should always keep well above freezing even at the highest refuge. Lower down will be similar to English summer night temperatures.

Snow is likely to be encountered at any time at higher elevations and pass crossings. Temperatures will vary dramatically according to elevation. In the lower valleys it may be warm/hot, but up in the mountains the temperatures will be colder, especially at night when it can fall to freezing or below. Basically, you need to be prepared for all weather conditions.

Altitude

This trip involves ascending to moderately high altitudes. However, if you are fit and healthy this is not something you should be concerned about, although at higher elevations you may experience a little breathlessness. Walking at a slower than usual pace when ascending and remaining well hydrated (4l-6l of water per day) is of great benefit when trekking at higher altitudes. We are always happy to give advice on altitude related concerns.

Baggage

Please make sure that your baggage is clearly marked with your name, inside as well as outside, in case the labels get detached. We request you limit your main luggage to one piece per person. As your main baggage will be transported by vehicle a normal suitcase can be used for your main baggage. During the walking day you’ll carry only your usual daypack.

Vaccinations & health

We always recommend visiting your doctor and dentist for a check-up before travelling. Your doctor will also have access to the most up to date information on vaccinations and medical precautions for the country you are about to visit. In general, no vaccinations are necessary for the TMB. A useful travel health online resource is www.fitfortravel.scot.nhs.uk.

Please make sure that you obtain form EHIC either online www.dh.gov.uk or from your local post office – you will need to produce this if you have to see a doctor.

First Aid

You should always carry your own small, personal first aid kit. This should consist of the following: A general anti-biotic, throat lozenges, painkillers (Band-Aids), blister treatment, insect repellent (DEET), rehydration salts, antiseptic cream, diarrhoea treatment (e.g. Imodium).

Security

Whilst the vast majority of travellers never experience anything untoward it is worth taking precautions particularly in urban areas. You should take sensible precautions in crowded areas such as street markets and airports, where pick-pocketing is common, and keep clear of any street disturbances. Don’t wear jewellery, or leave your bags unattended, keep large amounts of money, cameras and mobile phones out of sight when walking in town centres, and avoid walking in city centres after dark. Keep copies of important documents, including passports, in a separate place to the documents themselves, together with details of credit cards. Leave copies at home with a friend too. Safeguard valuables, important documents and cash and deposit them in hotel safes, where practicable.

Currency

Euros will be required for spending money, purchasing packed lunches, drinks etc. Please refer to www.xe.com for up to date rates. ATM machines are available at the Airport, and at locations where you overnight in a hotel/Auberge.

Language

French is the common language of the GR10. Whilst some people in hotels/refuges may speak good English do not expect English to be readily spoken by all and taking along a French phrase book is recommended.

Tipping

Tipping in restaurants, mountain refuges etc is entirely at your discretion.

Maps

We recommend Stanfords at 12-14 Long Acre, London WC2E 9LP (Tel: 0207 836 1321) www.stanfords.co.uk.
